On Friday evening the Modern Woodmen will hold a ball in Frank McLear's new building. The building which is a fine brick structure has a large floor space which makes it possible to accommodate many couples, and all attending should enjoy the evening.

Miss Brannan, of Mobley's millinery store, took her departure on Saturday evening for Revelstoke, B. C., where she has secured a good position. The fact that Miss Brannan has made many friends in town was demonstrated at the station by the large numbers who assembled to say farewell.

A meeting of the Lacombe Agricultural Society was held on Saturday, though no business of importance was disposed of. An important meeting and one which should be largely attended will be held on Sept. 9th for the dispatch of general business in connection with the fall fair to be held on Sept. 29-30.

For Labor Day, September 5, 1910, the Canadian Pacific Railway will authorize a rate of fare and one-third for the round trip. Tickets will be on sale September 2 to 5, final return limit September 7, 1910. For full particulars apply to nearest Canadian Pacific Ticket Agent.

R. J. Scott returned home on Saturday evening from a visit to coast cities. While in Victoria Mr. Scott purchased two acres of valuable property which is close in. He was also present at Victoria when Sir Wilfrid Laurier paid a visit to that city and heard the premier deliver an eloquent address at the Methodist Conference. Bob says the premier received a rousing reception there.

This is the last wag of the Hammer - for Clearing Summer Stock -

We can't tell you of all the exceptional values waiting your inspection, but will give you a fair idea of what to expect. All left overs must go at just what they are worth to you. An opportunity of this sort only "knocks" once a year, so don't shut the door in its face.

Only one week left to clean out all the odds and ends left over from the summer selling. With September comes the first showing of the new Fall Goods—that leaves us just one week to get rid of the season's remnants, and it means big price reductions, and big savings for you.

Careful Farming Pays.

Reports from southern districts in which the rainfall has this season been lighter than usual, telling of a difference in the condition of the crops in neighboring, or even in adjoining fields; a difference due to the kind of farming employed, and which bespeaks generally the difference between farming carefully and farming indifferently. This difference is, said to be very notable in the belt in which "dry" farming is employed, or is recognized as the system which should be employed. That part of the country being known to be liable to occasional seasons of light rainfall, what is known as the "dry" farming or "intensive" farming system is employed. The object of this is to conserve the moisture in the soil for the use of the plant, instead of allowing it to pass off through evaporation. As the word "intensive" suggests, the dry farming system is more laborious than that employed ordinarily and requires the expenditure of much more time effort and money.

During several recent years the rainfall in those districts, or elsewhere has been ample to mature the crops with little more if any, than the ordinary amount of cultivation. This put before the farmer there the temptation to relax his efforts, to abandon in part or altogether the dry farming system and to adopt more the ordinary system. Many of them did so. During the wet years they came off well. But the dry season came, and at once revealed the difference in the systems when put to the test. The lightly cultivated land quickly yielded up the moisture that was in it and left the plants with nothing to live on. Fields so cultivated are now in bad shape, while those of neighboring farmers who during the wet seasons persevered in following the more expensive method promise much better returns.

Something similar happened in the irrigation tract. There during the wet seasons water from the canals was not needed. The ditchers on many of the farms were accordingly allowed to fill up with earth and become useless. When the dry season came it found such land practically without irrigation, though situated in the irrigation belt and charged with rates for water that could not be used. Here the same difference of method is noticeable. The farmer who allowed his ditches to become filled has little hope of a return for his labor and expenditure, while his neighbor who kept his ditches free even during the years when he did not need them, was able to water his grain and has the assurance of a much better outcome.

This object lesson cannot be lost on the farmers of the districts affected. It must serve as a warning to them that the favorable season is really a season of danger—because it carries the temptation to abandon or neglect the means which in their part of the country assure them being able to reap where they have sown. It will take a long term of very favorable years to again lull them into security and induce them to neglect the means known to be once in a while necessary if they are to get a return from the seasons operations. Though indifferent farming may pay in good seasons, only good farming can pay in a poor season. If the experience of the present year serves to stamp this fact on the minds of those who suffer from its neglect, they will be the winners from it in the long run.

Another good result of the object lesson will be the establishment of the agricultural possibilities of the districts affected by the drought. Fortunately not all the farmers in those districts neglected their irrigation ditches or abandoned the intensive farming methods. Had they done so the general aspect of the country this year must have diverted immigration elsewhere. But the men who clung to the safeguards in the seasons when they were not needed have saved the country from this disadvantage. Their fields stand as proof that even in a dry season crops can be successfully grown if the proper means are taken. This fact will be worth much to those districts in the future and in the long run. It will, on the one hand, assure the man who goes there to farm that he can get a crop if he goes about it right; on the other it will warn him that if he does not go about it this way he is pretty liable to encounter adverse circumstances. The better results visible on lands that have been carefully farmed should result in more careful farming, even when indifferent farming might be found profitable.

The Mission of the Children's Aid Society.

A Children's Aid Society or a Committee empowered to act under the Children's Protection Act of Alberta should be at work in every town and village in the Province to attend promptly to cases of child neglect or cruelty, and to act in the capacity of probation officers or friends to the boys and girls who are in need of the helpful advice that only an older person can give.

The work of the Children's Aid Society is:

To rescue homeless, abused, or neglected children at the earliest possible age, from their unfortunate surroundings;

The finding of foster homes for children in need of such homes and the continuing of a watchful care over any children placed in such foster homes;

To protect society against the strongest of its foes, ignorance and vice, by the securing of good home conditions for children who would otherwise grow up under the most pernicious and evil influences;

To urge upon parents the serious results bound to accrue from the careless training or neglect of their children during the most impressionable years of early childhood;

To see that every child in the community has a chance to grow up to be a good citizen.

The home life of neglected children may be greatly improved by a little kindly intervention; that failing, there is a law in Alberta which protects helpless children from abuse or neglect and it should be appealed to promptly. Homeless children should be taken care of at once and placed either in foster homes or sent to the nearest shelter where they may be cared for until foster homes are found.

Those interested in the work of the Children's Aid Society or those who know of cases of neglect or cruelty to children, or know of a home where a little child will be welcomed, are invited to write to the Superintendent of Neglected Children for Alberta, Edmonton.

Ten Commandments of Agriculture.

Dr. Samuel A. Knapp, of the United States Department of Agriculture, has evolved ten rules that he calls "The Ten Commandments of Agriculture," for the successful cultivation of the soil. The following agricultural decalogue is set forth in the following:

1—Prepare a deep and thoroughly pulverized seed bed, well drained; break in the fall to a depth of 8, 10 or 12 inches, according to the soil, the subsoil to the surface (the foregoing depths should be reached gradually).

2—Use seed of the best variety, intelligently selected and carefully stored.

3—In cultivated crops give the rows and the plants in the rows a space suited to the plant, the soil and the climate.

4—Use intensive tillage during the growing of the crops.

5—Secure a high content of humus in the soil by the use of legumes, barnyard manure, farm refuse, and commercial fertilizers.

6—Carry out a systematic crop rotation with a winter cover crop on southern farms.

7—Accomplish more work in a day by using more horse power and better implements.

8—Increase the farm stock to the extent of utilizing all the waste products and idle land of the farm.

9—Produce all the food required for the men and animals on the farm.

10—Keep an account of each farm product in order to know from what the gain or loss arises.

The powers that be in the States are making a big campaign against the tide of emigration that is taking so many of her best farmers to Canada. We commend them for so doing as it is a serious loss to that country. We have to concede with them, however, in the scarcity of ammunition for such a campaign, which is accountable for false reports of conditions here that are circulated so widely in the other side. They are also drawing attention to the opportunities that exist at home for those discontented farmers and if the sample which the "Toronto Saturday Night" quotes from the "New York Times" may be taken as a guide to the stuff being handed out we are not surprised to know that the said campaign is not going well for the U. S. officials. The Times tells of a city man with no previous knowledge of farming who bought a farm for $20 an acre within 100 miles of New York, four years ago. He farmed religiously "by the book" and soon had the run down soil in great fertility. He has a herd of twenty milk cows and instead of selling his milk to the "Robber Milk Barons" he makes it into ice cream thus securing a larger return for his output than he otherwise could. A great scheme. He has also on his place a small lake from which he cuts each winter enough ice for all his needs, the cost stored being less than 30c per ton. He contracts for all his surplus ice to hotels, drug stores, and ice cream parlors in the nearby city. This same gentleman now has an orchard of 400 Bartlett pear trees, 3 years old, that in a few more years will bring him in $1000 a year. Meantime he and his family live like princes on the fat of the land. Now, that boasts farming in Alberta all to pieces. But most folks would like to ask one or two questions about this wonderful "Ice Cream Farm" as it is aptly called by the "Times." There are some real smart people left in the States yet, but we doubt their ability to cut ice for 30c per ton much less haul it and properly store it to keep. If there are any American farmers able to swallow stories like these they must keep them hid away in the back woods, we have never met any of them in Canada. To use a slang term such stories "cut no ice" and the authorities will need better stuff than that to cope with the steady stream of energetic, capable citizens that are leaving the U. S. for the Golden West of Canada.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take. Sold by All Dealers.

Preliminary reports indicate that the survey of the Saskatchewan River, with the view of establishing navigation from Edmonton to Winnipeg, is making satisfactory progress. It is estimated that the necessary work can be done for about $15,000,000, exclusive of the locks necessary to overcome the Grand Falls. If reports are completed in time, a preliminary appropriation is expected at next session of the Dominion parliament.

The world's trotting record was broken last week when a 14 year old trotter at Kalamazoo, Mich., made the three fastest heats ever trotted, the time being 2:04 1/2, 2:05 1/2, 2:06 1/2.

When the digestion is all right, the action of the bowels regular, there is a natural craving and relish for food. When this is lacking you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They strengthen the digestive organs, improve the appetite and regulate the bowels. Sold by All Dealers.

An important decision has just been handed out by His Honor Judge Lees, of Wetaskiwin, in the appeal of Mr. Justices D. L. Scott, N. D. Beck, and H. Harvey from the assessment of their incomes by the city of Edmonton. The appeals of the three justices were dismissed with costs. The appellants are justices of the supreme court of Alberta, and each is in receipt of a salary of $6,000 per year $1,000 of which is exempt under the city charter and the assessment being in each case on the remaining $5,000.

A MAN in Ohio recently sought an expert in oil, because he believed he had struck oil on his land. He brought a sample in a bottle. Evidently he had been in a great hurry, and had hastily grabbed the first thing at hand, for when the chemist had duly analyzed the sample submitted, he sent the following telegraphic reply: "Find no trace of oil. You have struck paraffin."

THE town council of a small German community met to inspect a new site for a hall. The architect, at a chapel, and as it was a warm day, a member suggested that they should have their coats removed. "You can stay behind and watch them," suggested another. "What for?" demanded a third. "If we are all going out together, what is there for any one to watch the clothes?"

CHARLES SUMNER, when in London, gave a ready reply. At a dinner given in his honor, he spoke of "the ashes" of some dead hero. "Ashes! What American English!" rudely broke in an Englishman. "You mean, Mr. Sumner, that you don't burn our dead in this country." "Yet," instantly replied Mr. Sumner, with a courteous smile, "your poet Gray tells us that 'Even in our ashes live their wonted fires.'" The American was not criticized again that evening.

H had run up a small bill at the village store, and went to pay it. The first asking for a receipt, the proprietor grumbled and complained that it was too small. "It's only for a few cents," he said. "It would do just as well," he said, "to cross the account off, and so draw a diagonal pencil across it." "Does that settle it?" asked the customer. "Sure." "An' you'll never be asking for it again?" "Certainly not," said the other coolly. "Faith, then," said the other coolly, "I'll take me money in my pocket." "But I don't rub that out," said the storekeeper. "I thought so," said the customer. "Maybe you'll be giving me a receipt now. Here's your money."

THIS is a jury-room secret that has come into circulation. It is a curious story. "Look here," said one of the jurors, "I don't know what the plaintiff doesn't ask damages for any slighted affections or anything of the sort, but only wants to get back what he's spent on presents, pleasure trips, and so forth." "That is so," agreed the foreman. "Well, then, I vote we don't give him a penny," said the other juror. "If all the fun he had with that girl didn't cover the amount he expended, it must be his own fault. Gentlemen, I consider that girl one of my self."

AT a recent English election two laboring men were discussing politics (and four) in the public bar of the Red Lion. One was a blue Tory, while Smith was a Radical of the deepest dye. The argument was fierce. "Ah, well," said the Tory, "at length, I've can't get away from the fact that Mr. Robinson's a puffed-up general. A real Tory he is. Only the other day I sent me a rabbit for my dinner." "Oh, he did," said Smith. "Well, that's a good sign. He's a real Tory. Jones began to get alarmed. "Well, the rabbit was a trifle light," he replied, deprecatingly. "Was still," said Smith, "was still. That's bribery and corruption."

WHEN the time came for the re-nomination of a member of a Southern legislature, the member scattered down to the opinion of his townsmen as to whether he should be sent back to the capital of his State as a lawmaker. "Well, boys," he said to the assembled politicians, "what about it?" "There was an extraordinary pause. "Speak right out, fellows," he encouraged the meeting. "To tell the truth, Sam," said one of the crowd, "we've decided that judging from this town you've got out of the legislature while you were here, we thought as well have with a letter."

THE late Professor Sophocles of Harvard was a short but finely built man, with bushy, snow-white hair and beard, blue eyes, and a look like some venerable Arab sheik. He was in his sixties, and in the class room, he asked a student, "What was done with the bodies of the Greeks who were killed at Marathon?" "They were buried," said the student. "Why, then, they were buried?" "I don't know, professor," said the student. "Right," said Sophocles.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

LORD CROMER and Sir Eldon Gorst are not the only unwarmed kings of the Nile. The founder of this wonderful institution known as "Cook's," into an almost unexplored region away to the west of the Upper Nile. He went to pay his respects to a certain chieftain. He introduced himself. The chieftain was polite, but had evidently never heard of Lord Cromer, or, indeed, of Britain's footing in Egypt.

TO a place of considerable wealth and reputation, a gracious and gaudy youth, gotten up regardless and resplendent in goodly apparel, was the guest of the singer in the opera, and he brought with him a bouquet. The lady appeared upon the stage with her principal part, and with feverish eagerness he handed his floral tribute to an usher, and adjured him to deliver it to the singer as soon as the song was ended. But when the air was done, the admirer of the singer, and directly adjured the usher was perceived logging the trophy to the able-bodied waiter.

THE inventor says that this experiment was carried out on a large scale in the ocean itself. Moreover, this harnessing of wave-power by means of floats is not a new idea. It has been accomplished by several men in several ways.

WE have the surprise beautifully planned," said young Mrs. West. "I have a suspicion that you're a bit of a fraud," said Mr. West. "I think he has been forgotten that today's his birthday," said the young man. "I don't know," said the young man. "I don't know," said the young man.

THE town council of a small German community met to inspect a new site for a hall. The architect, at a chapel, and as it was a warm day, a member suggested that they should have their coats removed. "You can stay behind and watch them," suggested another. "What for?" demanded a third. "If we are all going out together, what is there for any one to watch the clothes?"

CHARLES SUMNER, when in London, gave a ready reply. At a dinner given in his honor, he spoke of "the ashes" of some dead hero. "Ashes! What American English!" rudely broke in an Englishman. "You mean, Mr. Sumner, that you don't burn our dead in this country." "Yet," instantly replied Mr. Sumner, with a courteous smile, "your poet Gray tells us that 'Even in our ashes live their wonted fires.'" The American was not criticized again that evening.

H had run up a small bill at the village store, and went to pay it. The first asking for a receipt, the proprietor grumbled and complained that it was too small. "It's only for a few cents," he said. "It would do just as well," he said, "to cross the account off, and so draw a diagonal pencil across it." "Does that settle it?" asked the customer. "Sure." "An' you'll never be asking for it again?" "Certainly not," said the other coolly. "Faith, then," said the other coolly, "I'll take me money in my pocket." "But I don't rub that out," said the storekeeper. "I thought so," said the customer. "Maybe you'll be giving me a receipt now. Here's your money."

THIS is a jury-room secret that has come into circulation. It is a curious story. "Look here," said one of the jurors, "I don't know what the plaintiff doesn't ask damages for any slighted affections or anything of the sort, but only wants to get back what he's spent on presents, pleasure trips, and so forth." "That is so," agreed the foreman. "Well, then, I vote we don't give him a penny," said the other juror. "If all the fun he had with that girl didn't cover the amount he expended, it must be his own fault. Gentlemen, I consider that girl one of my self."

AT a recent English election two laboring men were discussing politics (and four) in the public bar of the Red Lion. One was a blue Tory, while Smith was a Radical of the deepest dye. The argument was fierce. "Ah, well," said the Tory, "at length, I've can't get away from the fact that Mr. Robinson's a puffed-up general. A real Tory he is. Only the other day I sent me a rabbit for my dinner." "Oh, he did," said Smith. "Well, that's a good sign. He's a real Tory. Jones began to get alarmed. "Well, the rabbit was a trifle light," he replied, deprecatingly. "Was still," said Smith, "was still. That's bribery and corruption."

WHEN the time came for the re-nomination of a member of a Southern legislature, the member scattered down to the opinion of his townsmen as to whether he should be sent back to the capital of his State as a lawmaker. "Well, boys," he said to the assembled politicians, "what about it?" "There was an extraordinary pause. "Speak right out, fellows," he encouraged the meeting. "To tell the truth, Sam," said one of the crowd, "we've decided that judging from this town you've got out of the legislature while you were here, we thought as well have with a letter."

THE late Professor Sophocles of Harvard was a short but finely built man, with bushy, snow-white hair and beard, blue eyes, and a look like some venerable Arab sheik. He was in his sixties, and in the class room, he asked a student, "What was done with the bodies of the Greeks who were killed at Marathon?" "They were buried," said the student. "Why, then, they were buried?" "I don't know, professor," said the student. "Right," said Sophocles.

The founder of this wonderful institution known as "Cook's," into an almost unexplored region away to the west of the Upper Nile. He went to pay his respects to a certain chieftain. He introduced himself. The chieftain was polite, but had evidently never heard of Lord Cromer, or, indeed, of Britain's footing in Egypt.

TO a place of considerable wealth and reputation, a gracious and gaudy youth, gotten up regardless and resplendent in goodly apparel, was the guest of the singer in the opera, and he brought with him a bouquet. The lady appeared upon the stage with her principal part, and with feverish eagerness he handed his floral tribute to an usher, and adjured him to deliver it to the singer as soon as the song was ended. But when the air was done, the admirer of the singer, and directly adjured the usher was perceived logging the trophy to the able-bodied waiter.

THE famous landmark which occurred a year or so ago, in the Hamilton Hills, in England, "The Kilmarnock White Horse," has had a "spring cleaning." Three tons of lime have been used for whitening the "White Horse," which now stands out very prominently on the hillside. The "horse" has not been re-coated since 1901.

Our Fall Fair.

A few days more than one month hence and the Lacombe Fair will be to hand—Sept. 29-30. The prize lists are in the hands of the numerous exhibitors and it is pleasing to note that increased interest is developing. In connection with the event. What we boast of having fully as good if not the best farming district in the province, making this year no exception, we believe firmly what we say, and we think that on the occasion of our Fall Fair we will have greatly substantiated this undeniable fact.

The Agricultural Society is constantly revising old methods and making plans for a better Lacombe Fair, and by all accounts they are getting things down to a business every way. The Society is well organized, and the board of directors is composed of prominent men, capable of managing the fair in a most efficient manner. The range for competition is wide; there are not many hard and fast rules to be complied with, and matters are so arranged that every body has a chance to compete for the many good prizes given.

The directors are contemplating a more successful fair than the big success of other years, and we believe it is the desire of the entire community that this annual occasion should be a bigger and grander success each year. The merchants and townsmen have been liberal in their subscriptions and free in lending their support in whatever way they are requested, and their determination is to make our exhibition the best in Alberta. The Board of Trade will look after the sports end of the exhibition, and we can promise that a splendid program will be provided, and at absolutely no cost to the Society.

Will Have Good Sports

The Board of Trade will this year provide the sports at the annual exhibition of the Lacombe Agricultural Society, and this body is already at work on the program. It is the intention to have a long and interesting list of events, and particular pains will be taken to have events that will call out competition from the farming community. The races will all be for local horses, and as there are a large number of fast ones in the community, they will prove interesting. The athletic events will also be strongly in evidence and there will be ample opportunity for all athletes in the community to show what they are made of. Baseball matches will be arranged, and a large number of teams have signified their intention of participating. The sports this year will be put on without one cent of cost to the Agricultural Society, which fact will no doubt be appreciated by the Directors. In previous years the sports were a considerable drain on the treasury, and it was very hard for the Society to come out ahead of the games. The citizens are coming forward very liberally with donations for the prizes. The whole program of sports and attractions will be published later.

Barnes Big Show.

Barnes Big Wild Animal Show will be in Lacombe for two performances on Thursday, September 1st. This show is something new in the circus line, all the performers being wild animals. They have animals of every kind, lions, tigers, elephants, etc., doing stunts we are used to seeing human athletes do. They come in their own train of 22 large cars, and have the largest circus and menagerie of the kind in the world. The visitors to the Calgary and Edmonton exhibitions will remember Barnes' trained animals, especially the mule, which appears to be the clown of the show. Don't forget the day—September 1.

Alberta Best Yet.

As to the advisability of leaving Alberta for the Western States, Alfred Tucker, a well known old timer of the Lacombe district, now located in Montana, has the following to say in a letter to Mr. John McKenty:

"I see by the American papers that large numbers of settlers are leaving Alberta and crossing the line. They will find that it is out of the frying pan into the fire. The drought has ruined everything in the north and east of Montana and in the south-west corner of the State it is only half a crop. The surrounding states are in a worse condition. In the corn-raising states the crop is said to be very light and on account of a general shortage in everything many are looking for a panic. From my own observation I would strongly advise everybody in Alberta who has a fair chance to live through the winter, to stay there."

Mr. Tucker's address is Racetrack, Powell Co., Montana.

Hospital Notes.

Miss Pratt, who was suddenly taken ill some days ago is improving after an operation.

T. O. Mulvey of the Union Bank, in the hospital for appendicitis, is recovering favorably.

G. A. Hardy's condition is good. He is making splendid recovery.

ALIX

Mr. Bird, who has been in charge of the Presbyterian Church at this place, leaves for his home in New York on the 29th. He has made hosts of friends during his short stay and we are sorry to see him leave us. He will resume his duties at Princeton, N. J., after a short visit at home.

H. M. Trimble has a big force of men at work putting up hay in this vicinity.

J. C. Davis will have his subdivision on the market in a short time. He has sold a great many lots already.

W. W. McKenzie, of Red Deer, has opened a jewelry shop. He purchased a lot on Main St., and is having a building put up. At present he is located in Sanderson's hardware store.

Our ball team is going to Red Deer to have a try at winning the brewery cup. Quite a number of teams will play. We expect the cup will be on exhibition at the Grand Hotel or Union Bank, Alix, on Thursday of this week.

Ed. Tate, one of Alix's successful merchants, left on Thursday last week, to meet some one in Winnipeg. In the meantime the carpenters are hustling to have the house in readiness for their return.

The Alix Free Press have got fairly well settled in their commodious new quarters, and have installed a gasoline engine. No more "turn the crank Dennis," for this way. Editor Frederick is to be commended for his enterprise. He has one of the best buildings in town and should be in shape to handle the increasing trade.

J. C. Davis has gone to Calgary after his new auto. He purchased a 30. Roo. When it arrives we expect to occupy the rear seat part of the time. Mr. Davis is just the kind of people we want. He has absolute faith in Alix and is backing up his faith with the coin. He has had samples of the cement marl tested and we understand is much pleased with the report, and will have a cement plant in operation as soon as matters can be arranged. There are immense beds of the marl near here.

Mr. Holland went south last week and was accompanied home by his wife. At present they are boarding, but in a few days will be domiciled in their new cottage on Jamison St. This is another case of the right people coming to the right town.

We are pleased to learn that our esteemed friend, Billy Magee, intends coming home on the 28th, to spend a few months with his family. His friends here are as numerous as the people, and everyone will welcome his return.

There is a great demand for lumber here, as we have only one yard between two good towns, Alix and Forster. The demand will be still greater in a very short time, and Mr. Bashaw is kept busy trying to meet the demand.

Harvest is well under way and the yield will be extra good as the heads are particularly well filled. The price also is good. Everything points to a prosperous year for the farmers, and as they are the people the town depends on it Canon Robinson is travelling through Canada to obtain information for use in the magazine of the society in the interests of the Archbishop's Western Canada Fund. He leaves this morning for Calgary and will proceed thence to the coast, returning to Halifax in time for the Anglican Tercentenary Celebration, at which the Bishop of London will be present. Bulletin.

The citizens of town have been very kind in subscribing so liberally to a benefit fund for Mr. G. Hardy. Mr. Hardy, it will be remembered, is the unfortunate man who sustained injuries by being struck by an engine half a mile from town some weeks ago. In consequence a petition has been given wide circulation in his behalf and we are pleased to record about $100.00 as being raised in this way. His injuries have placed him in a helpless and critical condition and it is to be hoped that he will fully recover.

Notable Road-Building.

The question of good roads is one of such pressing importance throughout Alberta. One of the best in regard to a great piece of road building which was completed in Iowa last week will be of interest to the people of this Province. In the short space of a single hour, on Saturday last, a line of road, 380 miles in length, and stretching entirely across the State of Iowa, was put in what is declared to be "the most perfect condition of any road west of the Mississippi River."

Weeks and months were spent in preparation for the work, but not a pick or shovel was used until the designated second was "ticked off." Then some 10,000 workmen swarmed out on to the roadway, and when they ceased work an hour later Iowa had one of the finest long-distance roads "in the entire West." And what is the most interesting thing in connection with that notable piece of work is the fact that not a man of the entire 10,000 engaged on the work received payment of wages.

Last winter the Iowa roads, because so bad that traffic was practically suspended. Finally the matter became a political question, and both parties got behind the good roads movement. Governor Carroll called a good roads meeting at Des Moines early last March, and out of this meeting was evolved the plan of a river to river road stretching from Council Bluffs on the Missouri River to Davenport on the Mississippi, a distance of 350 miles straight across the State from east to west.

Instead of appointing new committees to handle the work the regular Republican and Democratic committees in each county through which the road would pass were approached. A rivalry was created as to which party would have the most workmen on the job when the line for work arrived. Last Saturday was selected as the day, and from 9 o'clock to 10 o'clock the hour of work.

Every farmer along the way was personally summoned by the committees, and practically every man agreed to give the one hour that was asked for. Farmers were asked to bring their ploughs, scrapers, road drags, and an organization equal to those employed in regular railroad building was worked out. In the weeks preceding the work all bridges and culverts along the road were repaired and put in first class order that there should be no delay when the road builders started working.

Hundreds and thousands of ploughs, picks, shovels, scrapers, road drags, grading machines and other implements were brought along. Every farmer brought his team with him. Superintendents and overseers had been appointed, and as the result of the work done, the State of Iowa has now what is described—a little over enthusiastically—it may be as "the finest piece of long distance roadway in the West."

The Harvest is on.

Now that the farmers of the district have got well into the harvest, it is being demonstrated that their expectations for a record crop have not been unfounded. Every day samples of grain are being brought to town from all parts of the district the like of which have never been seen before. The crop has escaped every danger—no drought, no hail, no frost. The growing conditions have been exceptionally favorable this year. Although we have not had the amount of rainfall we usually have, our soil appears to be of a nature to stand any amount of dryness, and where fields have been properly farmed the results are the very best. In the Lakeside, Canyon, Morning-side, Sparrowville, Fairview and Jackson Lake districts, extraordinary crops will be harvested this year, and in the Bentley and Rim-bey districts to the west, the farmers report everything turning out well. Besides the exceptional fields already mentioned in previous issues, B. F. Bagley has fields of wheat and oats worth going out to see. He has a stand of wheat the like of which will be hard to find. With great heads, some of them ten to twelve inches long, and straw five feet in height, this wheat appears to be of phenomenal. He did not get a place in the field competition, but is under the impression that the judges did not visit his place at all. His oats, too, are a great growth, standing over five feet with heavy heads, and will go at least 100 bushels to the acre. A sample sheet can be seen at W. S. Mooney's office, and should do the eyes of the newcomer good. Parker and Evans, west of town, have wheat that looks good to the prospective settler and the visitors from the southern part of the province. The field is one of the best ever grown in the district, and the yield will be heavy. Taken all around, the crops about Lacombe are as good as those of other years, and proves what we have always contended—that the Lacombe district is the best farming district in the Province. There has never been a crop failure here—our farmers are prosperous and enterprising as a consequence.

Roosevelt Jolted.

Roosevelt has been told so frequently that he is the most popular man in the United States that he has probably become thoroughly saturated with the idea. The fact that he was turned down last week when he sought the temporary chairmanship of the Republican state committee of New York, may awaken him to the fact that in politics, absence does not make the heart grow fonder. He was accorded an enthusiastic welcome on his return from Africa but that was partly inspired by the expectation that he would promptly assume the attitude of adviser-in-general to the nation and would straighten out the tangles that have made Taft's life a burden. The insurgents of the Republican party and the regulars looked to him to devise some means of bringing them together again on an amicable basis and the friends of conservation looked to him to take an energetic hand in the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy. Roosevelt has failed to respond to the popular demand for his intervention just as he has failed to discuss the possibilities of a third term in the White House and his unwonted silence in these matters has caused him to be regarded with a feeling akin to distrust. Ordinarily he is blunt and outspoken, and his studied repression has created uneasiness and the impression has spread that he is waiting to see which way the cat will jump. The jolt that was handed him last week will awaken him to the fact that the old role is the most profitable and we may look for more of that "Big Stick" swinging that so endeared him to the hearts of his people.

Florence Nightingale.

At the age of ninety passed away Sunday in her English home the greatest woman of the nineteenth century: Florence Nightingale. She was the daughter of an English gentleman, and her first name was given her because she was born in the city of Florence in Italy. It is matter for surprise that one of such slight physique should have so long survived the strain through which she passed between thirty and forty; there is nothing surprising in the fact that in spite of her personal disappearance from public view she has retained her place with great persistence in the public memory. Miss Nightingale's attention was very early in life directed to the need for more intelligent and better trained nurses in hospitals of all sorts, but chiefly in those extemporized for the treatment of sick and wounded soldiers in time of war. She had completed several years of training and observation in Great Britain, Germany, and France when the Crimean war began in 1854. Never was there greater need before or since for such help as she and her corps of self-sacrificing British women brought to the British army, and her services were deemed so well entitled to special recognition that the national feeling on the subject found expression in a popular donation of a quarter of a million of dollars. With characteristic altruism she used this fund to endow a training home for nurses, which appropriately commemorates her name. The high reputation she had won by her professional skill and practical common sense was recognized by the army surgeons of both the United States and Germany in the great wars of 1864-70 inclusive, and she has never been ignored by the British army authorities. More than one generation will have passed away before the traditions perpetuating the work and personality of Florence Nightingale fade into the prosaic light of commonplace biography.

Dogs and Ponies.

Downie's company of educated dogs, ponies, goats, monkeys, and elephants, including some splendid vaudeville features and other novelties, will exhibit in Lacombe under canvas, on Tuesday, Aug. 30. Downie's exhibition is too well known to need much praising. The simple announcement that his talented dogs and ponies are soon to exhibit here is sufficient to enthrall the little ones, who in turn make the fact known to the older ones, and as usual the exhibition will enjoy the same liberal patronage. His exhibition thoroughly deserves all the praise that is bestowed upon it, for it would be impossible to devise a more pleasing and instructive entertainment than the one given by Downie and his wonderful dogs and ponies. The prices of admission are, children 25c, adults 50c.

the front of the herd had just come to the edge of the yard and the sheep, and the others were following the bunch and massed with it off the inside. It was a close call, but I saw the danger and I might not have been able to get the sheep out of the yard. The animals were infuriated. They were in the air swaying their heads and kicking their hind legs. I wanted to get the ragged fucker, but they had passed me. I was just in time to see a boy get a glimpse of one as he headed up and fired. At the shot the animals started to back up, and I saw a Barker, one of the fiercest, turn away from the other two, and lead the leader.

The other three leaped at me. They were like trained soldiers and in a long line and followed me straight for my tree, where I was. I was not sure if I was, as it would give me an excellent place to pick a good bull. But as I saw the elephants drew close to their trunks in the air and I saw the danger which had caused me trouble, I grew very nervous.

As she did so, she found no purse, but—the discovery was evidently that, too, had been a coat too big for its illicit wearer—and dropped off when he divined Smith's purse. He had discovered it almost immediately, and haunted the vain hope that he might yet recover it. She took it next day to Scotland, and though assured that it would never be claimed, left it there for months, and then had it sold for a trifle. The Leading Store

Trying to Stop Emigration.

The United States is giving the best publicity possible to the greatness of Canada's farming resources by scheming to prevent the flow of United States farmers to our country. It can be depended upon that Canada will circulate the falseness of statements made on the other side of the line, and thus the farmers of the republic will learn through the controversy what magnificent lands we have.

It is claimed that the United States Government has set aside a fund of half a million dollars with which to combat the "rush to Canada." Foolish "Uncle!" The U.S. government has decided to spend that amount of money in advertising government lands in the western states and in showing prospective emigrants that they can purchase land in that country just as cheaply, and in many cases at even lower figures, than they can buy Canadian lands. But in making this statement the government is obliged to steer clear of furnishing a descriptive comparison of the Canadian and United States lands. In western United States there are many millions of acres of land that can be purchased at $1.25 per acre and that are worth about one cent per quarter section provided no taxes are assessed against it. There are, of course, millions of acres of much better land than this that are subject to homestead entry, but when the government advertises: "Why go to Canada? We have 367,000,000 acres of free lands in this country," all the great body of absolutely worthless lands is not included. Of course this land cannot be compared with the western Canadian lands, nor, in fact, can any of the United States lands now subject to homestead be compared with the Canadian lands. True, there is much grazing land which may be homesteaded and purchased at $1.25 per acre, but practically no farming lands are now open to homestead.

With the half million dollars which it will spend in advertising its own lands the United States Government will do its best to hold a portion of those western farmers who are leaving the States for Canada because of their ability in the latter country to secure large bodies of land very cheaply. But the government is not alone in its efforts to stem the tide of emigration. The trans-Mississippi states, working independently, are preparing to open up on the Canadian land movement. Recently the matter of emigration from the states west of the Missouri was made the subject of a special meeting attended by the governors of a number of these states. The subject was discussed and committees appointed to look into the cause and reason of the emigration.

Find out what's the matter with the States and why Canada seems to attract so many of our very best farmers," were the instructions issued to this committee. In furtherance of this work an investigation is now being made. Many of the big newspapers have taken up the matter and editorials are appearing daily in some of these publications. These editorials all call attention to the emigration from the States to Canada and all ask "Why?" None are brave enough to come squarely out and give the reason for this emigration, although practically every one of these writers knows that it is because of the superior advantages offered by Canada to the farmer seeking land, either as a home or for investment purposes.

But so serious has this movement to Canada become that the country press of the ten middle western states most seriously affected have formed an unwritten agreement to "kill" it. The state press associations have discussed the matter and as a result various articles detrimental to and decrying Western Canada are being printed in the country newspapers of these states. Anonymous "interviews" are appearing in many papers, telling of the alleged "experience" of some farmer who left the States two or three years ago, went to Canada, where he remained a couple of years or more and after almost starving to death, managed to get his old neighbors back in "Iowa" to raise money to assist him back to the United States, "where he expects to live and die." The farmer of this experience is always located some 500 or 600 miles away and so vaguely described that he can never be located.

But to offset advertising of this description Canada has the hundreds of letters which daily cross the border into the United States and which are written to their old neighbors by farmers and others who have come from that country into Canada and who have met with successes which have placed them on easy street. If not another line should appear in a United States newspaper regarding Canada, those letters would keep up the emigration from the mid-west farms to Canada West.

(BENTLEY)

Miss S. S. Ross left on Wednesday's stage for her home east of Lacombe, after an enjoyable vacation at Bentley.

Miss Grace Gibson returned to Edmonton on Friday, to resume her school duties after spending her vacation with Bentley friends.

Jabez McPherson and wife are taking a two weeks' outing at their cottage at Brownlow's Landing.

The C. N. R. surveyors, with J. W. Landy, are prospecting for a railway grade to the West of Bentley.

The Yacht Races

The writer was an interested on-looker at the yacht races on Friday. A few things noticeable were the fall of the "Meteor," "Mollie" was the Candy Kid, and the "Leda" ran the slow end of the slow race, with Capt. Cunningham in charge. The Dawsons, and Thorpe and Sparks are all preparing plans for boats and riggings that will show the "Mollie" a clean pair of heels another year. The time for the three mile triangle was the "Mollie," sailed by J. McKenty, 35 minutes; Dawson's large boat, second in 38 minutes; Dawson's small boat, 3rd; Thorpe's "Meteor" 4th; J. Erskine's "No Name," 5th; and Dandreg, Bros. "Leda" got back in time for supper.

W. M. Kraft returned on Tuesday from Calgary, where he had been to take proceedings against the C. N. R., whose line cuts through his farm. Mr. Kraft succeeded in obtaining an injunction until the 26th inst., restraining the company from further construction work. Upon his return Tuesday the company's agent made an agreeable settlement, giving him $2,700 for the right-of-way, practically $100 per acre.

One of the necessary and important works of conservation of natural resources in this country is the effective prevention of the destruction of forest wealth by fire caused by sparks from railway engines. An excellent example in this respect has just been set by the State Government of New York, which has entered suit against the New York Central, and the Delaware and Hudson Companies to recover $2,503,200 in penalties and $151,000 in actual damages, growing out of the forest fires in 1908 on state lands in the Adirondacks, caused by negligence in the operation of locomotives.

It is stated that John D. Rockefeller's share of the 6 per cent dividend declared by the Standard Oil Company on Tuesday last is $1,620,000. For the three months preceding the Standard Oil dividend was 9 per cent, and the quarterly dividend proceeding that was 15 per cent, which would make those dividends $1,620,000 and $4,050,000 respectively. With his income from Standard Oil thus pouring in at the rate of $8,100,000 for the past nine months, to say nothing of his income from other sources, Mr. Rockefeller will evidently have to enlarge greatly his scale of giving, if he cherishes any hope, like Mr. Carnegie, of not dying rich.

Much larger quantities of wheat and oats are being delivered at the eastern terminus of the great grain fields of the West, this year as compared to last year, according to figures given out by Mr. McIntosh of the Lacombe Produce Company, on Monday morning. On August 20, a year ago, 16 carloads of wheat and 2 carloads of oats arrived in Fort William against 58 carloads of oats delivered there on Saturday last. The vast difference is owing possibly to the earliness of the season this year and on account of the prevailing high prices for old grain.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's visit last Thursday to the Methodist General Conference at Victoria, was a pleasing recognition of his appreciation of the value of the work of that church and his address to the delegates will serve to make him no less popular among the adherents of all Canadian churches.

The general Methodist Conference is considering the advisability of lengthening the pastoral term to eight years and among the ministers themselves, the idea finds favor though among the church members it will not meet with unqualified approval. It is only fair to the preachers that they should be given longer terms in which to accomplish results in the churches to which they have been assigned, but the average congregation does not consider this phase of the matter.

Owing to the great demand for railway labor and the difficulty that is being experienced by railway contractors in securing the number of laborers they require, authority has issued from the Department of the Interior to grant protection to homestead and pre-emption entrants until the first day of April 1911, upon the following conditions: Application for such protection must be made to the Agent of Dominion Lands for the district within which the land is situated, who will grant same provided it is shown to his satisfaction that the applicant has perfected his entry by actual residence upon the land for at least thirty days.

The explorers of the unknown parts of the world in the last century had great difficulty in getting stay at home people to believe in the wonders they told of seeing in foreign lands and "Travellers' tales" became quite a proverb for unreliability. In many cases such stories were but modest and truthful accounts of what are now commonplace facts. Lately there has been quite a revival of this optimism such as the Dr. Cook North Pole story and now there is a furious controversy raging in Sweden over the explorations and advan-tures of Sven Hedin the Swedish traveller who has been operating in Thibet and Indo China. A prominent author brands the traveller as a plagiarist and an impostor and says he is pilfering records of places he has never seen from an old Swedish author. Who knows but even the great Theodore himself may be called in question yet over his great book of travels in South Africa which he is publishing under the title of "Game Trails." Teddy is a formidable one to tackle, as the Nature Fakers found out, so he may escape.

How often a little unrehearsed incident slips in to defeat the very highest aims and purposes. When Tommy's papa came home from business he found his young son's place at table vacant. "Where's Tommy," asked papa. "Oh, I sent him upstairs to bed in disgrace. Do you know I actually heard him myself using bad language on the street." "What, said the astounded father, I'll learn him to use bad language," and off he went to interview Tommy. At the head of the stair he alighted and his chin nicely got the top step. When the air cleared a little he heard his wife from below saying sweetly, "That's all right, dear, you've given him a good enough lesson for this time."

The sidewalks are being put down as rapidly as possible. The concrete for the walk on the west side of Nanton is being put on and about five hundred lineal feet have been finished. If the weather permits nothing should hinder the contractors from making good progress as they have a number of workmen and abundance of cement and other material on hand.

Rapid progress is being made on the theatre building. The foundation is completed and already for the brickwork which Supt. Mobley says will commence immediately. A deep well is being drilled at the rear end of the building for the theatre's use. The floor is being laid this morning and everything points to completion within the specified time, Oct. 1st.
